Franz Kafka's The castle—San Francisco Public Library

The Castle is a 1926 novel by Franz Kafka. In it a protagonist known only as "K." arrives in a village and struggles to gain access to the mysterious authorities who govern it from a castle. Kafka died before he could finish the work, but suggested it would end with K. dying in the village, the castle notifying him on his death bed that his "legal claim to live in the village was not valid, yet, taking certain auxiliary circumstances into account, he was permitted to live and work there."

The English-language and American premiere of a dramatization by MAX BROD of Franz Kafka's novel, adapted by David Fishelson and Aaron Leichter. Of Kafka's two greatest novels, The Trial has often been dramatized (most notably by Andre Gide and Jean-Louis Barrault, as well as by Peter Weiss, Orson Welles, Harold Pinter and others). But Kafka's other masterpiece, THE CASTLE has never been done for the stage—at least not in English.

Franz Kafka's The Castle by David Fishelson

The Castle is an unfinished novel—as Max Brod, Kafka's literary executor, observed, Kafka intended that K. should die exhausted by his futile efforts to gain access to and acceptance from the elusive, local authorities but that on his deathbed his character was finally to receive a permit to stay in the village—and it stands as testament to the Kafka's achievements that its unfinished state is in no way detrimental to its effectiveness.
